Jacoby Lecture Poll

Topic of Brotherhood Too Narrow Students Say

A recent informal poll among UB students shows a majority opinion that the Jacoby Lectures on brotherhood would have wider appeal to the students if current or major topics could be substituted for the general topic of brotherhood.

Twenty-two students were polled on this subject, and 14 were in favor of the Lectures being changed to include topics of interest while eight students felt that the theme of brotherhood should remain.

The Jacoby Lectures were founded by the Frank Jacoby Foundation, and provide for one nationally prominent speaker each year to come to the campus as a guest lecturer on the topic of brotherhood.

This year's lecturer was Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Some opinions on this series include:

Cornelius Holinko, a senior majoring in history: "It should be modified since the theme of brotherhood itself is so vague and ill-defined that it is subject to individual interpretation."

Paul Springer, a junior majoring in political science: "Since the Jacoby Foundation allows us to bring outstanding national figures to this campus, they should not be confined to brotherhood."

Amir Zussman, a senior majoring in mechanical engineering: "I think the lectures on brotherhood should be continued with the practical aspects on achieving brotherhood being emphasized, rather than an hour of glowing platitudes."

William Romeo, a senior majoring in industrial journalism: "The Jacoby Lectures should be confined to the topic of brotherhood since they were established for this purpose. Topics should not be left up to the arbitrary discretion of the speaker."

Arthur Sultan, a junior majoring in psychology: "I realize that we are bound by the requirements of the Jacoby Foundation, but I feel to operate wholly within the confines of his ideals is self-defeating. The Foundation provides for lectures on brotherhood by prominent speakers. It is my belief that we could correlate brotherhood with the idea of garnering of knowledge and opinion.

If this would be possible, it would be possible to allow national figures to speak on whatever they choose to, to further the understanding and knowledge of the UB students."

William Young, a junior majoring in marketing: "All convocations, including the Jacoby Lectures, should enrich the academic program of the University by supplementing regular courses. Effective use of this opportunity depends on stimulation of the students, which is a prerequisite for any good educational program. Senator Goldwater's speech on brotherhood was very well written, but hardly stimulating. Allowing a controversial figure like him a free-choice of subject matter could have provided more students with a better understanding of the issues of the day. Why water-down an opportunity like this? If brotherhood remains the subject of these lectures, then people who are famous for their work in this field should be obtained, like last year's choice of Dr. Martin Luther King."

Thomas Rash, a senior majoring in mechanical engineering: "The Jacoby Lectures should be limited to the topic of brotherhood because the financing by the Jacoby Foundation is for this purpose. Perhaps we have other interests, but we also have other convocations where these interests may be brought forth."

Anyone who is interested in photography and would like to assist the Photo Editor of the Scribe is asked to contact either Bart Needle, 296 Park Avenue (ED 5-8219) or one of the editors. This apprenticeship would be taken with the understanding that it could lead to the position of Photo Editor next semester.

Society Wants New Members

The University's honor society, Aristeia, is now accepting candidates for membership. Any eligible student may apply; in writing, care of the faculty sponsor, Dr. Goulding, at Milford Hall.

Requirements for membership are as follows: The individual must have earned a minimum of 76 hours credit; his cumulative grade point ratio must be at least 3.2; at the time of his election, he must have a grade point ratio of at least 3.5 in all courses counting toward his major; and no student may be accepted if he has a single grade of F on his record. In special circumstances part time students who have already earned 100 semester hours credit may be considered for membership.

Average Faculty Salary To Be $10,000 In 1971

Of special interest to those students majoring in education and to faculty members of the University is the following report concerning proposed faculty salaries during the next 10 years at the University (all information is taken from the University's report regarding its plans and needs for the next decade, Feb. 16, 1962):

"Faculty salaries will be increased to a maximum of $15,000 and a minimum of $5,000, with an average of $10,000 by 1971. Some salaries will be even higher than $15,000 through endowed chairs or special professorships. Summer session employment will continue to be provided for most of those who wish it at the rate of one-fourth annual salary; thus those who are at the average of $10,000 in 1971 will have a net salary of $12,500. In addition to these net salary figures fringe benefits will amount to approximately 12 per cent more including T.I.A.A., Social Security, major medical insurance, term life insurance, and liability insurance. Sabbatical leaves will continue to be provided for all members of the faculty after the first seven years of service. Subsequent sabbatical leaves will be contingent on the individual's ability to win grants or on the willingness of departments to pool teaching assignments of absent members. Scholarships for children of faculty members and their spouses will be continued as will health clinic privileges. Provision is also made for wage increases and benefits for staff members who do not hold faculty rank."

The average salary increments from 1962-71, not including fringe benefits estimated at 12 per cent and an additional 25 per cent of base salary for a full summer load, are as follows:

During 1962-63 the average faculty salary will be $6,600. The following year it will move to $7,100 and during the 1964-65 school year it will be $7,500. In 1965-66 the average salary will jump to $7,900, during 1966-67 it will be $8,300 and from 1967-68 it will move up to $8,600. This average salary will be $8,900 in the 1968-69 span, $9,200 in the 1969-70, $9,600 during the 1970-71 term and $10,000 during the 1971-72 school year. Thus the average yearly increase in salary is about $400.

Story Contest Awaits Entries From Students

Cash prizes totalling $2000 await collegiate authors in a short story contest designed to discover talented young American writers, it was announced today.

Contest winners will have their stories published in an annual hard-cover volume, "Best College Writing."

The search for promising young fiction writers is the sixteenth in an annual college short story contest conducted by Story Magazine. Prize money is being provided by The Reader's Digest Foundation, which recently offered cash prizes in a competition to find outstanding news and feature writing among college newspaper editors. The Digest Foundation is adding a grant of $5000 to cover administrative costs of the contest.

Prize for the best short story submitted in the contest will be $500. The number two entry will win $350, and third prize will be $250. The next 18 winners will receive honorable mention awards of $50 apiece.

Announcement of the contest was by Whit Burnett, Editor of Story and by Sterling Fisher, Executive Director of the Digest Foundation. Both urged contestants to prepare entries as soon as possible, noting that the contest deadline is April 20, 1962. Manuscripts should be from 1500 to 9000 words in length and should be submitted to Story Magazine College Contest, c/o (continued on page 3)

Students Who Steal Books Are Malicious and Immature

by Prof. Joseph Crescimbeni
College of Education

It has been brought to my attention recently, by students in my Educational Methods 344 class, that several original, creatively-illustrated reading books were stolen from the book exhibit held in the Carlson Library during final exams week. I was absolutely stunned upon hearing this news.

These books, which represent countless hours of research, organization, preparation and drawing, are being maliciously deprived from their rightful authors simply for the sake of "greedy possession," as they serve no useful purpose to their present owners. As you can guess, all of the books that were stolen were among the very best, at least indicating a high degree of selectivity by their present guardians.

Without question, I found myself in a state of "professional shock," constantly trying to reassure myself that these charges were false. I could not bring myself to contend with this startling realization; namely, that someone would steal these creative works from their own peers. These thefts supercede plagiarism, for in these cases, even the physical materials are gone. I had heard of textbooks, reserved for classroom assignments, being taken from the Library shelves, but with the installation of the new photocopier, I assumed this immature practice had stopped. Unfortunately, I find myself profoundly wrong in this assumption.

I consider wanton theft a major infraction. I believe the theft of these creative works wanton, malicious and unjustified. Furthermore, I believe they were executed by persons who do not realize the basic instrumental use and role that these books play in the elementary classroom.

I consider the use of the Library a privilege, just as driving, voting and teaching are privileges. Some instrumental plan for halting this kind of useless pilfering is necessary. Basically, it should be a personal code of honor, stemming from within the students themselves. If this plan is inoperable (as present situations indicate), because of the limitations of certain types of human behavior, then we must institute an even more organized, methodical procedure for the supervised withdrawal and return of all library material. This may be considered a sneaky method of operation, but I caution you to remember that we are dealing with a minority of sneaky people.

I appeal to those students who may have "mistakenly removed" these creative books to return them to the main desk of the Library. If you do return them, it will be a justifiable act of Christian-Hebraic tradition. If you do not return them, then render yourselves to the realization that scores of elementary children, for whom these books were primarily designed, will be unable to enjoy their fine pictures and messages.

This week our students have gone out to begin their apprentice student teaching experience, but quite unfortunately, without their original reading books.

For them, my deepest apologies.

NEW MEMBERS of the "Who's Who in American Colleges" group were honored at a recent dinner given by President Halsey in the private dining hall of the Student Center. One of the highest honors a student can achieve is to be elected to "Who's Who."

The Tests Are Out — Why Not Make It Legal?

It has seemed to me during the past 80 or 90 exams that I have taken in college that the testing systems in institutions of higher learning could be much-simplified. The result of this simplification could lead to probably about twice as much being learned over a four-year period and with considerably less pain involved.

Most of us as students now pursue one of the following means (or a combination of them) in preparing for a test: study the material given in the book, in lectures and in "outside" sources on a day-by-day basis (the ideal path that a student should follow); take lecture notes, read the text in a somewhat haphazard manner, as time allows — then try to cram the previous three or four weeks' material into a ball and swallow it whole the night before a test (the path a student most often follows); or take random notes if any at all, place your textbook on a closet shelf for the semester if you bother to get one and either prepare a revolutionary new type of "crib sheet" the night before the test or make certain that "Joe Cerebrum" is stationed in the most favorable "hawking" position in the room (also a quite-frequently followed path).

I would venture to say, and without too much fear of contradiction, that the "learned" student (maybe practiced is a better term) in any one of the three areas mentioned above could attain high enough grades to make him a "Dean's List scholar." Whether this type of recognition, when obtained through any other means than "study and diligent effort and application" is merited or not is a very good question. After all, to do something in a manner not totally acceptable and get away with it (even to the point of excellence) shows some kind of intelligence does it not?

The important thing here is that we first recognize the problem, for it does exist. Secondly, for the good of the University, we must agree that it is necessary to find a solution to this problem. Then a solution must be found. The following is one possibility:

The instructor could make out a series of tests, preferably short answer and/or essay, to cover the material that he expects to include in the semester's work. The number of tests would naturally depend upon the type and length of material to be digested by the student during the semester. Of major importance would be the fact that all material was covered on these tests in a systematic manner.

At the beginning of the semester these tests could be handed out to the students for their use. Lectures and text assignments would continue as they are now, but this material would not be placed in a notebook or at the back of the mind and forgotten. Instead it would be used to answer questions on these tests. All study from then on could be done directly from the tests. And when it came time to be quizzed on the material (this would have to be done frequently) students would get the same tests that they had been given at the beginning of the semester. The final would include questions from all of the tests.

This method would not be considerably different from the one now used because most of the tests are out now anyway. This would simply provide an easy way for the material to be studied — it would be studying without all the unnecessary adjectives, prepositions and so forth. But this system would not be undertaken to make it easier for the students. It would be done to allow more to be learned in the same period of time. There would be no hit and miss here — the material to be learned would be before you and all that would be needed to do well would be desire and effort.

NSA ON CAMPUS

by Gene Gordon
NSA Coordinator

The following report was submitted to President Halsey by Bob Ronstadt, who recently attended an NSA conference at Columbia University. Excerpts are published here with President Halsey's permission. — Gene Gordon

"On Friday, Feb. 23, at seven o'clock my companions and I registered for the convention at the Hotel Paris in New York City. The conference began at eight o'clock in the evening and was held at the Low Memorial Library at Columbia University. The keynote address was delivered by Joshua Nkomo, the President of Southern Rhodesia. A question and answer session was held after his speech.

"The conference procedure on Saturday differed considerably from Friday evening. Because of the numerous delegates and their diversified interests, the convention was divided into four areas: Asia, Africa, Latin America and International Organizations. These areas were further subdivided into workshops A, B, C, etc. Since my primary interest was centered in the Latin America zone and specifically Cuba, I chose Area III, workshop B.

"At 9 a.m. our conference commenced with a Mr. Luigi Einandi acting as discussion leader. Mr. Einandi is an instructor of Government at Wesleyan University, and did his graduate work at Harvard. He speaks fluent Spanish, and has toured and specialized in Latin American affairs for the past seven years. Besides displaying unbiased facts, Mr. Einandi answered any questions from the students. A number of foreign students were also invited to each conference. We had several Cuban delegates in our own workshop. I might add again that the students varied politically, and we were not merely a group in total agreement. We had members of the Conservative movement as well as liberals; however, the majority of participants were between these two extremes.

"During this time no proposals of planned action were discussed or voted upon; only the issues as they now stand, their effects, and their future course were debated. Each student was then able to determine his own opinions; and, most important, he was able to accomplish this with (continued on page 6)

Vox Populi

Student Deplores College Cheating

To the Editors:

After three years at the University I have become convinced that cheating is one problem which cannot be solved by the faculty or the administration. Indeed, it cannot be stopped by the students — unless we band together to stamp out all forms of dishonesty involved with academic work.

The one thing a student at UB typifies is a social being. This, then, is the way to stop cheating. My proposal is not complicated; I do not imagine it is new. All that I am sure of is that it is not being used here or, to my knowledge, at any other university.

My proposal is this. All organizations applying to the Student Council will be forced to add an amendment to their constitutions stating in effect "that anyone brought before the Ethics Committee and found guilty shall be expelled for a definite time from this organization." It is my hope that all groups, even those not receiving money from Student Council will take this action. Certainly it will need careful thought and planning but failure to enact a measure such as this, in my estimation, to condone cheating.

I am firmly convinced that the only way to stop cheating is to place any student guilty of it in a position of complete ostracism from all campus activities. Remember the cheater can be detrimental to the student body of the University as well as himself. Let us stop all dishonesty on our campus. We owe it to ourselves and our school.

Student Council

Election Time Is Nearly Here

by Gene Conroy
Student Council President

As you roam about the campus for the next few weeks, you will see a multitude of posters announcing that now is the time for all hopeful candidates for Student Council office to submit their applications. Yes, student politics will once again take a front seat.

You may be wondering why applications are out so soon with elections not set until April 5 and 6. The reason for this is that the election committee for Student Council wants to make this year's election the most successful in the history of UB. In order to fulfill this desire, they are making every effort to inform the student body of the availability of positions and the candidates for these positions.

Application blanks are now out and must be returned by March 16 for president and vice-president of Student Council, and by March 28 for class officerships.

When the names of candidates have been cleared by the Office of Student Personnel, a brochure will be prepared containing biographical sketches of the candidates. It is hoped that these brochures will give the students an objective picture of each candidate's qualifications.

On April 4, 1962, a convocation will be held in Dana 102 at 2 p.m. At this time, the presidential and vice-presidential candidates will be introduced by a speaker of their own choosing and allowed to briefly address the gathering. The candidates for the various class offices will then be introduced to the audience.

The elections committee has made one major change in procedure this year, in allowing candidates for president and vice-president to run on a ticket. With (continued on page 7)

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA — Battle lines have been formed by supporters and opponents of the University of Pennsylvania student newspaper, the Daily Pennsylvanian, which was forbidden to continue publication last month by the Dean of Men. At that time, it seemed that the staff of the student paper was nearly unsupported. A rally by staff members to protest the suspension of publication was overwhelmed by a large crowd of students supporting the actions of the Dean and of the Men's Student Government. The MSG had requested the Dean to suspend the publication. However, supporters of the paper held a well-publicized, well-attended and extremely well-covered by the local professional press — protest meeting at the University. Support also came in from other college papers in the east. The Harvard school publication was sent to 2000 students containing the story of the suspension. The University of Columbia, Brown University, Cornell, Dartmouth, Princeton, and Yale also sent protests of the action to the president of the University of Pennsylvania. The protest rally was attended by over 200 students who heard several members of the faculty oppose the measure taken by the Dean. After the presentations by the speakers, a statement was made by a member of the committee which placed the editor on "conduct probation." During a question period, a discussion covered the reasons for placing the editor on probation. According to a story which appeared in the Pennsylvania News, women's weekly paper at the university, the editor was held "responsible for an offensive issue," and for (continued on page 6)

Student Of the Week

Thomas Campbell, a senior majoring in economics, hopes to go into the field of business upon completion of his studies. A graduate of Greenwich high school, he makes his home in Greenwich.

Tom is the treasurer of the Student Council, vice-president of the senior class, historian of Theta Sigma (TS) fraternity, and secretary-treasurer of the Economics Club.

In the past he has been treasurer of TS, Freshman Week Committee treasurer, president of the junior class, a member of the political relations forum, and chairman of Student Council's general disciplinary and ethics committee.

Concerning the growth of the school, Tom says, "The University is currently undergoing a rapid expansion phase of its life and the present administration has done an excellent job of expanding the physical plant. This expansion has not been achieved without intangible costs. However, many areas and functioning parts of the University are overlooked in the rush of putting up a new building. I realize that many of these problems are a matter of which comes first, the chicken or the egg."

"But all of these areas cannot be of this type. This semester it is evident that the University Bookstore is overlooking the student's welfare for the sake of saving a few dollars postage and a little extra trouble. Apparently it has adopted a policy of cutting back on requested orders so that the supply of books is not in excess."

"A student must have a sense of belonging and must feel that the university is looking out for his interests, otherwise he graduates with a bad taste in his mouth."

SEA Dinner Here Monday

Richard M. Carrigan, Director of the Student National Education Association, will be the guest speaker at a convocation sponsored by SEA on Monday evening, March 12, 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center.

Carrigan, who now makes his home in Arlington, Virginia, was born in Centralia, Illinois. He did his undergraduate work at Princeton. Then for one year, Carrigan taught Latin American and United States History at Western Reserve University in Cleveland. For the next five years he served in the United States Navy. He was on the Joint Chiefs of Staff during the time President Eisenhower was chairman.

Education called him again and he taught seven years in Washington and Lee High School in Arlington, Virginia. He became the President of the Arlington Education Association. Through his participation in the Teacher Education and Professional Standards Conference in Parkland, Washington, in 1916, he became very interested in the TEPS program. He returned to attend the Virginia State Leadership Conference. As a result, Dr. T.M. Stinnet, who was consultant of the conference, invited him to join the National Education Association staff. Carrigan accepted this invitation in September 1956 and served as Director of Publications.

STUDENT PLACEMENT

The State Welfare Department reminds all students interested in jobs as social workers, case supervisors, accountants, investigators, clerk-typists, or consultants for the staff of the new Medical Assistance for the Aged Program that the examination should be taken during the senior year. This is so the student will be ready for appointment in the Welfare Department immediately upon graduation. The examinations are held every Wednesday in the State Capitol.

The Detroit Civil Service will be on campus Monday, March 12, to interview engineering students.

On Wednesday, March 14, mechanical and electrical engineers will be interviewed by representatives of Pratt and Whitney, Hartford, Connecticut, and the Springfield Armory, Springfield, Massachusetts. Also on March 14 the United States General Accounting Office will have a representative on campus to interview accounting students.

On Thursday, March 15, a representative of the Bridgeport City Trust Company will be here to interview all students interested in banking.

Anyone interested in further information is requested to contact Frank Wright, industrial coordinator and placement director, third floor, Howland Hall.

Fashion Show Set For Next Month

On March 21, the Fashion Merchandising majors at the University will put on their annual Spring Fashion Show. This event will be held at 2 p.m. in the social hall of the Student Center.

Many items will be shown, featuring the new colors, fabrics, and silhouettes which will be popular this spring. The merchandise, which will be modeled by the students themselves, will be re-orderable at a reasonable price.

A reminder: skirts must be worn in the social hall of the Student Center.

ADVISOR MEETINGS

The faculty-adviser meetings for first semester freshmen who enrolled for the current semester have been cancelled, reports Dr. Alfred R. Wolff, dean of Student Personnel. All students will meet with their advisors on March 28, however.

Beginning freshmen are asked to contact their advisors in order to make personal appointments.

DAILY MASS

For the convenience of all Catholic students at the University, Mass will be offered Monday thru Friday during Lent in the Chapel of the Newman Center at 5 p.m.

STORY CONTEST

The Reader's Digest, Pleasantville, N.Y. Manuscripts must be certified by a faculty member.

Judges in the competition include Harry Hansen, critic and former editor of the O. Henry Award Volumes; Ralph E. Henderson, Editor of Reader's Digest Condensed Books and Whit Burnett, William Peden and Richard Wathen of Story. Hallie Burnett is Contest Director.

Further details about the contest are available in the current issue of Story or may be obtained by writing to Story Contest, c/o The Reader's Digest, Pleasantville, N.Y.

Men's Senate, WRA Hold Leadership Conf.

The Leadership Development Conference, with an attendance of over 250, at the Student Center March 2-4, consisted of a series of talks and discussions, presented by the Men's Senate and the Women's Residence Association.

The week-end conference commenced with introductions and greetings by Jo-Ann Lipton and Gene Conroy. Craig Stevens then introduced Dr. Alfred Wolff who spoke on "What Is A Leader?" His talk stressed democratic leadership. Dr. Allan C. Erickson, whose topic was "The Importance of Group Discussions" was then introduced. "All members of a group to some extent are leaders," he said, "and no member of a group can escape the leadership role."

Frank Miller began the second session by introducing George Stanley who spoke about "The Ethical Responsibilities of Leaders to themselves, to the universities, and to those they represent." "The biggest problem for student leaders," Stanley stressed, "is their conflict in loyalty." He added to this statement with emphasis on ethical and moral values at the University. "These standards," he said, "must be strengthened in order that the image of the University be strengthened."

The third session was highlighted by a speech on "The Development of Leaders," given by Dr. Gordon Klopff, Associate Professor at the Teacher's College of Columbia University. He based his talk on the four qualities of leadership, "size of the dominant group, physical factors, self factors, and the situation." The movie "Lifeboat" was shown as a part of the discussion which followed.

On Sunday the conference continued when Judith Ullian introduced Susan Herman, Chairman of the Honor Council of WRA, who discussed "Why We Have An Honor System in the Women's Residence Halls." She explained the responsibilities that each woman resident student must fulfill in order that she leave the University with a "personal sense of honor" as Dr. Runes had stated at a previous convocation in connection with the Leadership Development Conference. Discussion groups for both men and women followed this talk.

"How Do I See My Position?" was presented by individual speakers in the fifth session of the conference. Those leaders who spoke were: Esther Simon, Recording Secretary of WRA Executive Committee; Daniel O'Connell, Residence Counselor of fourth floor South Hall; Carol Leiblein, RA of Norwalk Hall; Matt Kashain, Counselor of third floor North Hall; Susan Marey, Sponsor at Norwalk Hall; James Smith, Proctor; Barbara Kahn, Sponsor at Wheeler Hall; Raymond Smith, Proctor of fourth floor South; Carol Feldman, President of Hubbell Hall; Frank Smith, President of North Hall ground floor; Joan Marsh, President of Ingleside Hall; David Otmer, Floor Judge fourth floor South Hall; Susan Horner, Chairman of Culture and Education Association of WRA; Bob Beauregard, Men's Senate Representative South Hall; Susan Savanelli, member of Honor Council; and William Sinclair, Vice President of Men's Senate.

Discussion groups followed these speakers, stressing practical problems within the residence halls.

A summary by Jo-Ann Lipton, Mrs. Olive Wright, William Sinclair and Dr. Klopff closed the conference. The merits of this conference are individual gains. Everyone will, at one time or another, be in a position as a leader. This conference instilled in all those attending an approach to leadership with mature attitudes.

SINGER ROY HAMILTON will appear in the social hall of the Student Center on Friday, Mar. 16, from 8-10:30 p.m. A comedian will also appear on the program. The admission charge will be one dollar per person.

Dart Tells of Past Career In Recent Campus Interview

"I sometimes think back and wish it could happen all over again," Prof. Harold Dart said in a recent interview. He was referring to his former career as a concert pianist, which spanned three decades.

He stated that his first "big" appearance was in Carnegie Hall, where he played Grieg's Piano Concerto in A Minor at the age of 12. This debut climaxed two years of study with John Adam Hugo, who gave Dart his first intensive lessons.

Before he was 21, Dart said that he decided to move to New York City, to try to make his way there.

"I went to New York with $100 and was going to come back when it was reduced to six. I got down to $12 and still had my rent to pay, but I had a concert the next week and was able to pay the rent with that money."

Dart went on to say that he also earned money accompanying pupils of the voice teacher, Frank LaForge. Through LaForge, he met many of the great singers of the day, including Lawrence Tibbett, Lauritz Melchior, Marian Anderson and Jean Dusseau.

He explained that he toured the country from 1929 to 1946, both as an accompanist for concert singers and as a solo performer. As a soloist, he revealed that he played with many symphony orchestras, including the Denver and Norfolk Symphonies.

"I also had a show on CBS radio once a week where I played the piano," he added, "and I did a similar show for NBC."

In 1946 he accepted a teaching position at the Manhattan School of Music, from which he had received his bachelor's and master's degrees. In 1949 he came to the University in a similar capacity, and has remained here ever since.

Though he still gives an occasional recital (he gave one on campus last December), Dart said that it is difficult to both teach and play. "Teaching squeezes out practice time," he said, and added that it is almost impossible to carry a full teaching schedule and give recitals at the same time. However, he concluded by saying that he would not be adverse to resuming his concert career, if and when the opportunity were to present itself.

AHSBD Plans Billiard Contest On March 12

The Alumni Hall Student Board of Directors will sponsor an intramural pocket billiard tournament beginning Monday, March 12, from 7 to 11 p.m. The program will work on a single elimination basis, with playing partners picked from a "blind draw." The tournament is open to all full or part-time male students of the University.

An entry fee of 50 cents for the first round will be charged at the time of registration. From the second round to the semi-finals, the charge will be 25 cents per round. The semi-finals and finals will be free of charge. The fees will be used for cue sticks and trophies which will be awarded to the winner and runners-up.

The rules and regulations of the Billiard Congress of America will be observed. For further information, contact Tom Pandolfi. Players may register at any time at the control desk.

Suggestion Box

I suggest that the minutes of the Student Council meeting be printed in the Scribe so they are available to the students.

Joy Kroin

Student Council would like to thank you very much for your suggestion. For all students who are interested, the minutes of each meeting will be posted on the bulletin board outside the Student Council office, room 204A in the Student Center. Due to the limited space in the Scribe it will be impossible to publish the minutes of each meeting.

Each week, the Scribe will publish the best suggestion with an acknowledgement.

Student's Songs Are Recorded

Ed Frackman, a senior majoring in music, had his first recording released this Monday on the Dola label. A touted young singer named Joey Evans does the songs on both sides of the platter. Both were written by Ed. The songs are "Lotsa Lovin'" and "Marianne". Frackman is a member of Knights of Thunder and a veteran of four Thunder performances.

DANCE CLASS POSTPONED

The appearance of Miss Helen Tamiris, leading concert, stage and Broadway choreographer, scheduled for Thursday evening (March 8) at the University has been postponed to Thurs. April 5, at 8 p.m.

"irresponsible" statements made after the paper was suspended. After several days of meetings and discussions, MSG voted to refuse to allocate funds for the paper but recommended that the university administration lift the ban on publication imposed at the request of MSG. While staff members are hopeful that the administration will lift the ban, they do not know if they will be able to go on as a daily unless funds are forthcoming at least for the remainder of this semester. They feel if they are allowed to become an independent newspaper they can sell enough subscriptions next year to keep the paper going. However, they are doubtful about being able to publish for the rest of this semester without assistance from the administration or from outside sources.

SWARTHMORE — The World Youth Festival, which has been a subject of heated dispute in the past years, was the subject of a panel discussion at Swarthmore College. The aim of the discussion, according to the co-sponsors, the Swarthmore Student Council and the Student Political Action Club, is to "present and clarify information and divergent points of view concerning the Festival." The Eighth World Youth Festival is scheduled to be held this summer in Finland even though Finnish students do not want it in their country.

Deadweek's over and to those who were chosen as "pledges" we extend our congratulations and good luck wishes. Some people are going to definitely need it!!! What happened a couple of weeks ago at KBR's skating party? It seems that Mike Oshan was caught skating figure-eights around Beth Lipsius again... All the prospective pledges for KBR seemed to have enjoyed themselves that evening: Ben Cascio, Pete Chase, Dale Carbonier, Ed Fiore, Jerry McGee, Jim Rittenhouse, John Murphy, Ray Smith, Howie Rhodes, Craig Stevens, Julio Pires, Ron Brouwer, Adam Rosica, Joe Mandy, John Vino, Gerry Hughes, Brian Cary, Mike Mackey. Big class, big boys!... A group of UB students were caught invading the Country House in New York last Friday night, and these same students held many a surprise for those involved.

IDP-SLX Universal Pledge Party will be held tomorrow night at Glorietta Manor with a $25.00 bond award for the best pledge show presented. Competition should be "stiff"... Congratulations to Marilyn Trew (TE) who received third prize at UCONN last weekend in the New England Talent Competition. Being completely unprejudiced as we are, we still think she should have walked away with nothing less than first...

What is the rumor about the Chaffee Four girls who continuously return from their weekends with "unexplainable" headaches??? Must be that their dates talk toooo much or else the girls spend their spare time studying tooooo much. What else could it possibly mean, hmmm?... Joey and the Twisters played for quite a crowd Saturday night, but the social room was so hot that many students were found downstairs or outside when they could have been dancing. Next time better ventilation should be considered. Congrats to Doty and Harvey who won the "Twisting Contests" on both Friday night (at AGP's Dance) and Saturday night.

As an extra added feature, the Alumni Hall Student Board of Directors made arrangements with the Xavier Cugat Dance Studio (3770 Main St.) in Bridgeport to have a twisting contest. Three members of the studio — the director, the manager, and an instructor — acted as judges. The Xavier Cugat Dance Studio graciously gave $25 dance courses to the winners. The Alumni Hall Student Board of Directors will present a trophy to the first prize winners. The winners are as follows:

First prize: Dorothy Swartz and Harvey Herer.

Second prize: Karen Bliderback and Arthur Cappelz.

Third prize: Janice Cohen and Norman Rosenblum.

Spring may not be just around the corner, but the Spring Play is. Better start getting your tickets now if you're anticipating seats. It should be a sell-out.

some concrete knowledge of the issues.

"By the informal discussion of students with contrasting political feelings, an appreciation of the convictions, of both parties was obtained. The National Student Association is not an organization created solely for liberals or conservatives; it is an organization which gives all students the possibility of truly becoming informed of the situations that surround them.

"In many parts of the world where acts of repression are practiced daily in the censorship of the press, the radio, and even suppression of political parties, the only places left for intelligent expression are in the universities. Because, we of the United States do not suffer under such circumstances the students of this country tend to disbelieve the need to support and partake in a national organization in order to present a united assemblage of beliefs to the rest of the world. But the vast majority of foreign students look to us for support and leadership and they rightly recognized NSA as the most representative national organization of student feeling.

"The NSA has illustrated to me by this conference, through the quality of speakers, its procedure, and its unbiased approach toward enlightening the student that it is the qualified organization for both conservatives and liberals to settle their problems. I returned from New York very enthusiastic over my discovery of NSA and I only felt sorry that more students at the University had not participated because they are either ignorant of NSA or have misconstrued the purpose of this organization."

Fifteen Years Ago (From our files of March, 1947).
UNIVERSITY OF BRIDGEPORT IS OFFICIAL NAME FOR COLLEGE

The College will be officially called the University of Bridgeport when it opens as a four-year college this fall, it was announced by H. Alman Chaffee, President of the Board of Trustees of the Junior College at a recent meeting.

GOOD NEWS FOR TRANSFERS

Two top-notch students have been accepted by high rating colleges in the country — Antioch, Brooklyn Law, Boston University, Boston College and Duke University are the schools. But don't all jump at once, students, you might be able to attend the University of Bridgeport!

EDITORIAL

"... recently there has been talk of fraternities being formed on campus. We hope the college realizes the barriers... they are beneficial to but a small percentage of students... We are trusting in the administration to stick to its policy of allowing only honor societies on the campus—we have faith that it will see the fallacy of any other policy."

Strong Questions Dorm Costs

by Clint Strong

Last year the Men's Senate petitioned the administration for mailboxes, and last semester the new dorms received them. The problem of lost and misplaced mail has been eradicated but a question has been raised as to who should pay for them.

The administration purchased approximately 400 mailboxes for $1,925 and plans to have the students pay the cost in four semesters at one dollar a box per semester. This practice of dunning the students to pay for new dormitory items may become habit forming and we would like to see the administration re-evaluate this program.

We enjoy watching the University grow and we feel obliged to participate whenever we can, but this responsibility also necessitates criticism when we feel a particular action can be a detriment to our University. In an educational institution it seems a paradox to place so much emphasis on finance when we are here for education. Let's take all those mattress pad charges etc. and add them to our tuition if they are so necessary. This will save the accountants time and present prospective freshmen's parents with a true financial picture.

Secretary Ribicoff To Speak At Sociology Dinner April 2

It was announced today by Dr. Joseph Roucek that the Hon. Abraham Ribicoff, U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare and former governor of the state of Connecticut will be the guest speaker at a dinner given by Pi Gamma Mu, the social science society at the University. The dinner will be given on Monday, April 2.

The Sociology Colloquium will honor James Hopkins with the Outstanding Staff Member Award, and Dr. John Rassias with an award as an outstanding faculty member who has contributed to the field of intercultural contributions. Delta Tau Kappa will present awards to Dr. Amelio Clochiotti, Victor Muniec, Patrick Palloto, editor of the Bridgeport Post and James Schwartz president of the Jay James Camera Shop, Inc. This dinner will be held at Eichner's Restaurant in Bridgeport at a charge of $3.50 for students $5.00 for adults.

The dinner will begin at 5:30 p.m. with Dean Clarence D.L. Ropp presiding. Dr. Henry Littlefield, the Reverend Joseph Simko and Rabbi Max N. Scheier will also participate. Joseph Dell'Olio will be the presiding officer representing the three organizations.

this arrangement, a vote for one is a vote for the other. It is believed this will encourage candidates to work together during and following the elections.

In choosing a running mate, the president-elect will be assured of an assistant of optimum value. Candidates must be careful to state the office they will be running for — if they will be running independently or on a ticket.

In the Scribe of Feb. 22, the editors berated the student body for laxity of response to student elections. This spring you will be given another chance to demonstrate your usual apathy. Why not surprise the Scribe editors and vote?

Knights Lose In Hoop Finale

On Wednesday, Feb. 28, CCNY trounced the University 96-83 in a Tri-State League game on the winner's court behind the record shattering performance of center Tom Nilsen, who broke the Beavers' scoring record for one game by netting 48 points on 18 field goals and 12 free throws.

CCNY started fast and increased its lead to 48-32 at halftime. As UB fell behind Coach Gus Seaman emptied his bench by letting next year's returning players play the second half.

Fred Schack was UB's top scorer with 20 markers, guard Gary Notice netted 19, and Dan Morello tallied 11.

Frosh End Year With 9-12 Record

The University Frosh concluded their season on Feb. 28, by losing a heartbreaking 92-91 squeaker to the CCNY yearlings at Wingate Hall in New York City. Frank Pambello copped scoring honors by denting the twines for 29 markers. The frosh began the season slowly but finished fast by winning seven of their last 10 tilts. The young Knights concluded their season with a 9-12 slate.

WOODEN ARTICLES: Our word lumber is named after the people known as the Lombards. It came about from the fact that the Lombards originated the pawnbroking trade. They had rooms set aside where they held material that was to be redeemed. The rooms were called Lombard rooms and gradually, because most of the articles were wooden, wood became known as Lombard and then lumber.

Morello and Yasinski Were Stars During 61-62 Basketball Season

by Dick Sharpe

This year the University varsity basketball team ended the 1961-62 season with eight victories in 22 outings and a 4-5 slate in the Tri-State League.

The Knights started the season by dropping two close games to Brandeis and Cortland State Teachers by identical 83-81 scores. UB then trounced their next three opponents AIC, St. Francis, and Brooklyn College to climb over the 500 mark for the only time during the campaign before losing two lopsided contests to Iona College and Adelphi College. After the Christmas recess the Purple Knights were victorious in only two of their next eight tilts as they beat only Hartford University and CCSC. The Knights finished their season by winning three of their last six games as they triumphed over Hunter College, Rider College and Long Island University besides dropping a heartbreaking overtime game to Fairfield University on the Stags' court.

Coach Gus Seaman was pleased with the teamwork and hustle that the UB players displayed throughout the season. He stated that he "was very pleased with the way the boys played against Fairfield University." Also, "that the Stags are one of the best clubs that a UB team has ever played."

This year's squad was led by Danny Morello who won the Tri-State League scoring championship for the second consecutive year. Morello averaged 22.8 per game in season play and 24.6 in league play. He is virtually assured of being named to the Tri-State League first team. Morello established two records at UB this season. First, he scored 45 points in one game to break the record held since 1950 by Ted Brandt. Second, his season average of 22.8 per game shattered the old record of 22.2 set by Bob Laemel in the 1959-60 season. All Coach Seaman had to say about Morello was "He's amazing and all those adjectives."

Joe Yasinski was UB's top rebounder and second leading scorer with a 16.3 average in overall play and an 18.5 average in league play. Also, both Morello and Yasinski became the sixth and seventh players in UB history to score over 1,000 points in their varsity careers.

According to Coach Seaman, "on paper, we have the potential to come out with a good club next season." Next year's squad will be minus star forwards Morello and Yasinski. The Purple Knights will have 12 returning lettermen including Gary Notice, Joe Troiano, Rich Colonnese, Fred Schack, Dom Ferrara, Mike Cohen, Roy Robbins, Dick Huydic, Dick Bruce, Harvey Herer, Jerry Feldman and Dave Seiler. Next year's team will also very likely include such upcoming freshmen as Joe Mandy and Frank Pambello, to list a few. Next season "UB will again use the pivot offense with the fast break," according to Coach Seaman.

The 1962-63 squad has plenty of depth at the guard position Gary Notihe, Dom Ferrara, and Joe Troiano will be alternating at guard while Rick Colonnese will hold down the center spot. With starting forwards Morello and Yasinski graduating, the forward position will be wide open.
